BRITAIN WILL NOT AGREE TO 12 MILE ZONE IN RUM ISSUE

Lord Curzon Informs Colleagues Proposal Was Rejected

HARD QUESTION

Situation Cannot Be Allowed To Continue, Dictum

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 28.—In the debate in the House of Lords today on the American seizure of liquor on British ships, Marquess Curzon declared that there was absolutely no chance of Britain agreeing to the proposal of the United States for a 12-mile limit as regards liquor only as a consideration for which the United States offers to allow the entry of British liquor under seal.

The debate was initiated by the Earl of Birkenhead in what Marquess Curzon later described as language of extreme circumspection.

Lord Birkenhead declared that the Volstead Act was never intended to create the present situation, which conflicted with sea usage. He suggested that British diplomacy should ask the United States to infuse some mitigation which would leave the policy of the United States unimpaired and at the same time relieve British shipping of a serious and unnecessary burden.

Marquess Curzon emphasised the importance of the question, which, he said, should be solved not so much by considerations of law as by tactics of diplomacy.

Marquess Curzon denied that the Government had treated the matter in silence. On the contrary it had pointed out to America that for any State to project the operation of a strictly domestic and municipal law on to foreign vessels on the high seas, which was the practical effect of the American ruling, would be unprecedented and would create an impossible position with regard to international voyages if the precedent were made general.

The Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs went on to say that he was of the opinion that the real motive of the United States Government in allowing the matter to come to a head at the present time was probably its desire to check the contraband carried on from the British territory of the West Indies and also from British vessels outside American territorial waters.

Marquess Curzon pointed out that Britain had refused to entertain the 12-mile limit proposal in June last year and had repeated the refusal a fortnight ago. In conclusion, the Foreign Secretary affirmed that the Government was using all channels of diplomacy to find an exit to the disagreeable situation, which, he declared, ought not to be allowed to continue.

American Chamber Opposes Abolition Of Extraterritoriality

On the question of abolition of extraterritoriality in China the annual report of the American Chamber of Commerce, presented at the annual meeting last night, has the following to say:

"The Board of Directors is of the opinion that the present conditions of unrest in China make absolutely unwarranted any consideration of the abolition of extraterritoriality. Until there has been a vast change in the personnel of those in control of the destinies of China, and they have become imbued with the idea of justice in the modern Western sense, none of the protection which American and other foreign interests now enjoy should be withdrawn.

"According to the terms of the Washington Conference, a Commission was to visit China six months after adjournment of the Conference and report on conditions. On May 6, 1922, the Chinese Minister to the United States requested the postponement of the visit of the Commission for one year. The Chamber is of the firm opinion that any consideration of this question should be postponed until conditions have improved in sufficient measure to justify the question being taken up again."

EMPRESS OF ASIA ARRIVES TONIGHT WITH U. S. MAILS

Canadian Boat Sails And President Comes Tomorrow

Bringing mail from America, the Empress of Asia, which was due at Woosung early this afternoon, has been delayed by the bad weather and is now due to arrive at midnight tonight. The tender with incoming passengers is expected at the Customs jetty about 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning.

The liner is bringing from Vancouver 263 passengers and a heavy mail and freight as well for this port, and is to sail for Hongkong direct at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. The tender with outgoing passengers and baggage will leave the Customs jetty at 7 a.m. tomorrow.

Following the Empress, two President boats are due here from the States next week. They are the President Lincoln, arriving from San Francisco on July 4, and the President Madison, from Seattle on July 6. The Lincoln should have arrived at Yokohama yesterday and the Madison is due there tomorrow.

Two fast mails for America will be dispatched in these three days. The President Jefferson is to leave for Seattle this morning, and the tender with outgoing passengers will leave the Customs jetty at 9 o'clock. The vessel arrived from Hongkong at the noon hour yesterday and docked at the Standard Oil Wharf, Pootung.

The Empress of Australia is due at Woosung from Hongkong early Monday morning, and sailing for Vancouver at 10 a.m. the same day. The tenders Alexandra and Vulcan with outbound passengers will leave the Customs Jetty at 7.30 o'clock Monday morning, and incoming passengers from the vessel are expected at the jetty about 9.30 a.m. Heavy baggage will be received at the Company's godown up till 11 o'clock tomorrow morning. Both the steamer are going by the way of Kobe and Yokohama.

A small mail from the States is expected on the Taiyo Maru today. The vessel will arrive at Woosung from San Francisco, Honolulu and Japanese ports early this morning, and is to sail for Hongkong and Manila in the evening. The incoming passenger tender will reach the Customs jetty between 9 and 10 a.m. today, and the departing tender is to leave at 4 p.m.

Labor Condemns Increased Air Force

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 28.—The Labor Conference, meeting in London, today adopted a resolution condemning the increase of the British Air Force "in competition with France as a preface to a new era of war," and demanding that Britain should convoke an international conference to abolish air armaments.

Other resolutions adopted welcomed amalgamation with the Second Internationale and the Vienna Internationale; characterised the Ruhr occupation as an act of aggression and war and demanded negotiations or arbitration; advised a world conference to revise the peace treaties; and urged recognition of Russia.

Mr. Ramsay Macdonald, moving a resolution, said that the war spirit would revive unless Britain had a Government which would devise a policy to stifle armaments.

"China's Merchant Class Must Rise To Occasion And Save Situation"—Dollar

President Of American Chamber Of Commerce Scores Outlawry And Points Out Trend Toward Foreign Intervention; Annual Report Covers Many Important Questions

A powerful indictment of the lawlessness and disorder now disrupting China and of the militaristic system responsible for it and emphasis of the part which the Chinese merchant and industrial class should and must play to bring about settled conditions, formed high points of interest in the address made by Mr. J. Harold Dollar, president of the American Chamber of Commerce, at the annual meeting of the organisation held last night at the American Club.

Mr. Dollar in his speech gave a number of instances other than the Lincheng affair in which foreign lives and property have been periled and pointed out the significant trend of such occurrences toward intervention by the foreign Powers.

The meeting was attended by about 100 members of the Chamber and in addition to Mr. Dollar's address there was a brief speech by Mr. Edwin S. Cunningham, American Consul-General. The new committee was elected and the members were called upon to consider an annual report filled with the record of important issues brought up and acted upon

MR. DOLLAR'S ADDRESS

Mr. Dollar's address was as follows:

"Gentlemen: when a year ago the honor of the Presidency of this Chamber was conferred upon me, I endeavored at that time to express my appreciation of that honor and my recognition of the responsibility: now that the year is finished, I wish to reiterate these sentiments all the more heartily, by reason of having had a part in the work which the Chamber has done, and because of the most gratifying loyalty and support which has been accorded to me by all. It is a great work, and it is a pleasure to have had the opportunity to take part in it; I hope and believe that such things as we have accomplished will be of material benefit to American interests; and I trust that the manner in which we have endeavored to carry on the work has been such as will cause the chain to remain unbroken, and that it will continue to be forged, link by link, and year by year, by those that follow us.

"In the annual report of the Board of Directors, which is before you, reference is made to many questions affecting the welfare of American interests in China, and to the steps we have taken in dealing with them. I will not attempt to go into the detail of these, as this is done in the report; and will only speak briefly here with regard to the general situation.

WHAT CHINA COULD DO

"All these matters which concern the general welfare can be divided, broadly speaking, into two classes—first, those things which can be done by Americans here and at home to remedy evils and improve conditions; and, second, those things which can be done by the Chinese people themselves—and I might add that, if the Chinese would do all that it is in their power to do, our own problems would be reduced to a minimum. I think I am safe in saying that the great majority of our difficulties are the result of the unsettled, chaotic conditions prevailing in China, which themselves are in turn the result of the lack of a wise, firm, and stable government. I think I can do no better than to take the Lincheng bandit outrage as typifying what these things lead to, and that by citing the action of the Chamber in this instance I will give a good general idea of the Chamber's aims and policies in dealing with the whole situation in this country.

"Politicians and even militarists are useful in their place, when there are not too many of them and they are of the right sort; but after all, it is the merchants and the industrialists who are the backbone of any country, and it is according as these are active and unselfishly interested in the affairs of their country that the government of the country is good or bad. I am not saying this because we are business men ourselves. It is simply a plain undeniable fact—the business men are the ones who do the work of the country, keep the country fed, clothed, and running, and it is consequently the business men who are in a position to know what is needed and who can supply the need.

WHAT BANDITY MEANS

"While we do not want to be considered dangerous pessimists, we must admit that conditions in China are serious; however, to show that we are not merely pessimists, I would say that we are not sitting down with folded hands moping about it, but have been and are doing our utmost to help improve conditions. If incidents like the recent ones continue to happen, one of two things is bound to result—either joint intervention and control on the part of the principal foreign powers concerned, or, if this is not accomplished within a reasonable time,

COURT ORDERS MME. LINOFF TO STOP BUSINESS

Mahriah, Inc. Secures Restraining Order And $20,000 Damages

Tatianna Linoff Arcus, better known as 'Madame Linoff', a dressmaker, must abstain from carrying on business of a dressmaker or milliner in Shanghai either for herself or in the employ of any other individual or corporation until October 1, 1924 under the terms of a judgment just handed down in the Mixed Court by British Assessor Mead and N. A. Ivanov, the Senior Consul's (Russian) Assessor.

The restraining order is an alternative to an award of damages against Madame Linoff for $20,000.

The case resulted from the sale of Maison de Modes, 4A Broadway, to Emily Moore, proprietor of Mahriah's Incorporated. In the contract for sale Madame Linoff agreed not to engage in dressmaking for a period of three years for certain considerations. One of the considerations was that Madame Linoff's debts were to be paid, but while she was in Europe on business she was adjudged a bankrupt because of Miss Moore's failure to pay the debts and claimed that as her defense for breaking the contract.

The court held, however, that Miss Moore was kept, paying the debts through the influence of M. Arcus, Madame Linoff's husband, who had full power of attorney for her during her absence, and refused to take that defense into consideration.

Russian Attempts To End Own Life In The River

A Russian, formerly an officer under Ataman Semenoff, attempted to commit suicide at 10 o'clock last night by jumping into the Whangpoo from the foreshore in front of the Palace Hotel.

Standing in the gardens he shouted at the top of his voice that he was going to end his life. Some other Russians in the gardens ran toward him and called a policeman, who stopped his first attempt. He broke loose from the policeman, however, and jumped into the water. As the tide was out he landed in water waist-deep.

The policeman and another Chinese waded in after him and after a short struggle hauled him out, and took him to the Central police station. He will be charged in the Mixed Court.

America's Only Volcano In Violent Eruption

Mount Lassen, the only active volcano in America, is in violent eruption. Settlers near the base of the mountain, in the State of Washington, are reported to be in serious danger. The last violent eruption on Mount Lassen was in 1915, when several buildings were destroyed.

Far Eastern American Bar Association Unqualifiedly Indorses Judge Lobingier

Resolution Points Out Judge's Notable Achievements On The Bench And Recommend Reappointment

Judge Charles Sumner Lobingier of the United States Court for China was unqualifiedly indorsed for reappointment at the expiration of his present term at the annual meeting of the Far Eastern Bar Association held Thursday evening. The resolution which was offered by United States District Attorney Leonard G. Husar, of the law firm of Rodgers and Husar, was seconded by Mr. John W. Schoenfeld of Schuhl and Schoenfeld.

Several complimentary speeches were made indorsing Judge Lobingier after which the resolution was carried as follows:

Be it Resolved that The Far Eastern American Bar Association, composed of every American lawyer in good standing in China and Japan, and many in the Philippines takes pride in the record of the Honorable Charles S. Lobingier, Judge of the United States Court for China, and points to the following among the many achievements of his ten years term:

1.—Building up the court library from little or nothing to an almost complete repository of American case law.

2.—Organising this association and securing its affiliation with the national American Bar Association.

3.—Securing a more convenient and appropriate place of confinement for long term prisoners.

4—Unification of the judiciary in Shanghai and its emancipation from administrative control.

5.—Setting and defining the jurisprudence which the court applies.

6.—Publication of the court's decisions in permanent, accessible and creditable style.

7.—Beginnings of a modern, scientific code of procedure in his Extraterritorial Remedial Code. The Association is particularly desirous that he be given opportunity to complete and promulgate said code.

The Association also points to Judge Lobingier's long record of judicial service in China, his experience, learning, industry and judicial temperament and the fact that, as Judge of the United States Court for China, he has never been reversed; and the Association feels that this equipment could not be duplicated in any other appointee who is likely to seek or accept the position. Therefore.

Be it Further Resolved, That this Association unqualifiedly indorses Judge Lobingier's record and respectfully urges the President to reappoint him at the end of his present term.

Mrs. Rowarth, On Witness Stand, Denies Assault On Indian Money Lender

Asserts She Watched Mah Jongg And Went To Movies That Night—Case Expected To End Today

A jury in the British Supreme Court sometime today will return a verdict finding Mrs. Judith Rowarth either guilty or not guilty of the charge of being implicated in the brutal attempt to murder an Indian money lender, Bakhar Singh. The trial of the elderly woman is expected to end today following the testimony of a few minor witnesses and the addresses to the jury by Sir Skinner Turner, the Chief Judge, and Mr. Lipson Ward for the defense and Mr. H. P. Wilkinson, Crown Advocate.

Sir William Rees Davies, Chief Justice of Hongkong, was on the bench with Sir Skinner. After several witnesses had been heard yesterday—including the defense of Mrs. Rowarth in which she offered an alibi—the case was continued until 10 o'clock this morning.

The interpreter who translated the Chinese documents was the first witness yesterday. He referred to these documents and read the signature as well as the names of the guarantors. The signatures on No. 1 document and No. 2 document are different. There is also a vast difference between the two first documents and the third one.

Sucha Singh said that he knew Bakhar Singh. He saw him after the assault on May 5 at 6 o'clock. I took out the contents

JAPAN MAKES STRONG PROTEST ON BOYCOTT, BERATES INACTIVITY OF PEKING GOVERNMENT

Note Recites Long Series Of Incidents That Culminated In Changsha Tragedy; Calls Severance Of Economic Relations Extreme Action Only Next To A Declaration Of War, And Declares "Anything Of The Kind Could Not Even Be Mentioned Against A Friendly Nation"

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, June 28.—With regard to the situation of the anti-Japanese movement in China and the attitude of the Japanese Government on the subject, the Japanese Legation has handed the following statement to Reuter's Agency:

The recent Changsha incident is only an instance of numerous anti-Japanese outrages committed in various parts of China. Since this spring the boycotting of Japanese goods has been openly advocated by students and other agitators, and merchants dealing in Japanese goods have been intimidated and obstructed in their business. In some cases those anti-Japanese agitators have gone so far as to force their way into Japanese Consulates and shops.

In spite of the growing intensity of the anti-Japanese agitation the Chinese provincial authorities have taken no adequate steps to cope with the situation, and the agitators continued to carry on their movement as they pleased until a band of Chinese troops was allowed to fall in with the students to stir up anti-Japanese feelings. In view of the gravity of the situation, Mr. Yoshida, the Japanese Charge d'Affaires, called on Mr. Shen Jui-lin, Acting Minister of Foreign Affairs, at the Waichiaopu on May 9, and drew his attention to the case mentioned above. Mr. Yoshida stated that the severance of economic relations was an extreme action only next to a declaration of war, and that anything of the kind could not even be mentioned against a friendly nation. He further emphasised that it was not proper for the Chinese Government to remain an unconcerned spectator of the unlawful movement, and that it was a glaring instance of international discourtesy towards a friendly Power to allow officials or troops to take part in or to give support to a movement of that sort.

PEKING WARNED

The Japanese Charge d'Affaires called the serious attention of the Chinese Government to the matter and requested it to take strict measures.

Meanwhile telegraphic messages were received from the Japanese Consuls at various points along the Upper Yangtsze reporting the growing intensity of the anti-Japanese agitation. When the Nisshin Kisen s.s. Taiyuan Maru entered Shasi on May 10 crowds of agitators shouted out all sorts of abuse at passengers coming out and threw stones at the boat from the land. When the steamer reached Ichang in the evening she again encountered obstruction from anti-Japanese agitators there, who rendered it impossible for her to land passengers or unload cargo. When the Nisshin Kisen s.s. Tachi Maru cast anchor at Shasi on May 13 crowds of agitators resorted to all sorts of violent conduct. Some of them went so far as to seize passengers coming out and coolies engaged in discharging cargo, and stamped on their backs the Chinese characters representing "Traitor."

In Hangchow there were thirteen cases reported in which advertisement signs for Japanese commodities were destroyed by groups of students.

In view of the grave situation, the Japanese Legation, in a memorandum of May 4, called the attention of the Chinese Government to the cases mentioned above and pointed out that the action of the student and other anti-Japanese groups was an infringement of treaty rights. The Japanese Legation requested the Central Government to take immediate steps to have the agitation suppressed. At the same time the Japanese consuls in the provinces were instructed to negotiate with the local authorities on the suppression of the agitation and the indemnity of damages sustained thereby.

RELIED UPON CHINA

"In dealing with the anti-Japanese agitation, the Japanese authorities at first entirely relied upon the Chinese Government to take adequate steps of their own accord, and it was only after the situation had grown worse that the Japanese Government requested the Chinese Government to take effective measures. The Japanese Government at the same time instructed their consular representatives to advise the Japanese residents under their respective jurisdiction to be very careful in their behavior so that they would not give occasion to any untoward incident. HARDING DEFIES BORAH, DECLARES FOR WORLD COURT

President Throws Down Gauntlet In Senator's Home State

BY UNITED PRESS

Pocatello, Idaho, June 28.—President Harding today invaded the home state of Senator William Edgar Borah, a potential rival for the Republican nomination, and took direct issue here with the Senator's political views by defending his own attitude with respect to the world court. Senator Borah opposes the court, just as he opposed the League of Nations.

"America," the president said, "will fail in her duty to herself, to the world and to history if she does not actively participate in every movement which aims at the eradication of war. The proposed world court aims at just that, and no reasonable man can entertain a doubt that this aim can be better accomplished with America's help than without it."

The president said that the chief objection to America's participation in the proposed court seemed to be based on the fear that such participation would lead to political entanglements, and that America would thereby become ensnarled in the endless maze of European politics. He expressed the firm belief, however, that a system of safeguards could be built up which would nullify this danger.

The proposed court, the president concluded, was the most promising medium yet offered for the prevention of a disaster similar to the world war.

9 New Directors Feted By Chinese Ratepayers' Body

A reception was given by the Chinese Ratepayers' Association yesterday in honor of the nine new directors recently elected. Mr. Fan Tsiao-peh, vice-chairman of the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce, reviewed the work of the directors for the past year and welcomed the new directors on behalf of the association. Mr. Wang Sien-hua, a new member of the directorate, responded.

After a discussion, it was decided to elect the municipal advisory committee as well as the administrative committee of the association by balloting by mail. The returns must be in the hands of the secretariat before July 14 when the results will be made public.

Berlin's Exchange Measures Nullified

(Reuter's Service)

Berlin, 28.—The German authorities' exchange measures have been nullified by a decree of the Inter-Allied High Commission that the German decree of June 22 does not apply to the occupied territories and that no prosecution will be allowed.

residents in the provinces were also warned against any action likely to give pretext to or provoke the anti-Japanese movement. Owing to these precautionary measures taken by the Japanese authorities, the Japanese residents in the provinces remained calm and patiently waited for the results of measures to be taken by the Chinese authorities, despite the threatening situation of the anti-Japanese agitation started in various parts of the country.

The anti-Japanese movement has been carried out all over the country. In Wuhu, Changsha, Hankow, Tientsin, Chungking, Kiukiang, Hangchow, Amoy, Chefoo, Tsinan, Ichang, Shansi, Foochow, and other places the anti-Japanese agitation was instigated by the so-called Society in Support of Diplomacy and other anti-Japanese associations, and various measures of pressure, attended with all sorts of outrageous action, were brought to bear upon the Japanese and their trade.

The anti-Japanese agitators seized and burned Japanese goods; poured violent chemicals over the dress of young ladies because it was made of Japanese stuff; threatened and deprived ladies on the streets of their shoes because they were Japanese-made; set fire to Japanese shops; forced their way into ships chartered by the Japanese and took away and burned advertisement matters and signs; seized and burned coccoons purchased by Japanese merchants and extorted a penalty of $1,000 per cart from forwarding agents who had carried Japanese goods.

NUMEROUS ATTACKS

The measures resorted to by the anti-Japanese agitators are too varied and numerous to be mentioned.

An anti-Japanese parade was organised at Changsha on May 29 and a student group which headed the procession broke in to the compound of the Japanese Consulate there, and took away the signboard of the Consulate. On May 7 a large number of students who were heading another parade, broke the main gate of the Consulate, which was kept closed, and forced their way into the Consulate buildings, smashing 20 window-panes and shutters of the Consular offices and other buildings. Towards the end of May, damage was done not only to goods owned by Chinese merchants who had business dealings with the Japanese but also to goods in the possession of Japanese merchants. Chinese employed by Japanese ships were persecuted; passengers on Japanese ships were obstructed on landing and embarking; and the agitators went so far as to insult Japanese ladies.

FROM BAD TO WORSE

It will be seen from the above the Chinese local authorities showed no sincerity in taking steps to cope with the situation, despite the repeated protests of the Japanese Legation, and the situation grew from bad to worse.

(Here follows an account of the Changsha incident, in which a Japanese landing party of marines, after repeated warnings, and after they had been closely pressed by a crowd of Chinese students and others, fired, killing two Chinese. The account is substantially as previously printed.)

SITUATION AT CHANGSHA

The cause of the Changsha incident is to be attributed to the inadequate measures on the part of the Chinese authorities to suppress the agitation, allowing the anti-Japanese boycotters to grow so presumptuous that they interfered with the legitimate trade rights of the Japanese and took a hostile attitude against the marines of the Japanese gunboat Fushimi.

In spite of that, the Chinese people in Changsha, instigated by the anti-Japanese organisations, put up placards everywhere in the city for propaganda purposes; rendered it impossible to communicate with Japanese ships and steamers; persecuted Chinese in the employ of the Japanese; cut off the supply of foodstuffs to the Japanese; made it impossible for Japanese ships and steamers to get supplies of coal, water and provisions.

The Chinese authorities, however, took no notice of this state of affairs, allowing the anti-Japanese agitators to have their own way, and the situation continued to grow all the more serious until the Japanese Consul was compelled to remove all the Japanese women and children at Changsha, 110 in number, on board the Nisshin Kisen s.s. Yuankiang Maru early in the morning of June 6 and then all the Japanese men to the Consular compound in order to protect themselves.

COMPELLED TO LEAVE

At Changte, when the Nisshin Kisen s.s. Hsiangkiang Maru reached the port on June 3, there were a great number of students and other agitators who lined up on the wharf and kept the steamer cut off from all communication with the shore. They seized and imprisoned some of the Chinese in the employ of the steamer, who went ashore on business, and prohibited the Japanese residents from approaching the steamer, rendering it impossible for the steamer to discharge her cargo.

The Hsiangkiang Maru was obliged to leave Changte early in the morning of June 5 without unloading and came back to Hankow. Before dawn on June 8 she had left Hankow and again steamed up towards Changte. Upon learning on the way, however, that the situation at Changte was threatening, she stopped at Yochow the following morning where she took in from a steamer of Jardine, Matheson and Company eight Japanese refugees from Changte and steamed back to Hankow.

According to the Japanese refugees, the Chinese local authorities had declared themselves unable to protect the Japanese against the threats of the Chinese agitators, and the Japanese residents at Changte were obliged to quit the place. Of 15 Japanese, four started in advance by a sailing ship and eight by the steamer of Jardine, Matheson and Company, leaving three at Changte.

TOKIO'S VIEW

The anti-Japanese movement is stirred up at Changsha and other places in China by the so-called Society in Support of Diplomacy, the Students' Union, groups of merchants who shrink from legitimate economic competition and groups of rogues paid by political agitators. The agitation is not only having bad results upon the trade between China and Japan, but also affecting the friendly relations of the two neighboring countries.

The state of affairs is now viewed with grave concern by the Japanese Government which is always solicitous of friendly relations with China and the peaceful development of the Far East as a whole. In view of the grave situation of the agitation in China, the Japanese Government has instructed Mr. Yoshida, the Charge d'Affaires in Peking, to make strong representations to the Chinese Government on the subject.

Mr. Yoshida, acting under instructions from his home Government, had an interview with Mr. Shen Jui-lin, Acting Minister of Foreign Affairs, at the Wachiaopu on June 8 and verbally communicated to him that the Chinese Government were requested to give telegraphic instructions to their provincial authorities to take effective measures for the suppression of the agitation; that in case the provincial authorities remained still inactive in spite of instructions from the Central Government and the safety of Japanese residents and their property continued to be threatened, the Japanese Government might be compelled to take the necessary measures according to the requirements of the case; and that as regards the claims for indemnity of damages sustained by the Japanese in connection with the recent Changsha incident and other anti-Japanese agitations in the different parts of China, the Japanese Government would enter negotiations with the Chinese Government after making full investigation of the cases. A lengthy Note supplementing what the Japanese Charge d'Affaires verbally conveyed to the Chinese Acting Minister of Foreign Affairs on June 8 was presented to the Chinese Government by the Japanese Legation on June 15.

Parliament will have its sessions in the Chinese territory of Shanghai if plans of Chu Fu-chan, leading Chekiang member of the Legislature, materialise. Mr. Chu left for Shanghai from Tientsin yesterday, according to a telegram received here last night.

While General Lu Yung-hsiang, Tupan of Chekiang, has undertaken to look after the financial end of the legislature after its removal, he did not wish to have its sessions in Hangchow as reported, because he felt that the solons should be located in neutral territory. Gen. Lu's view has been endorsed by the local organisations and the solons leaving Peking and Tientsin, it is understood.

In reply to the telegrams sent by the local Chinese General Chamber of Commerce, both General Lu and Tuchun Chi Sheh-yuan of Nanking promised to give their undivided support to the Chamber's suggestion of a Chekiang-Kiangsu Alliance in case of any warfare resulting from the present political crisis.

Party On July 3 At Country Club

The Columbia Country Club will celebrate the Fourth of July with a dinner dance and party at the Club on the night before the 'Glorious Fourth' — July 3—and with an open house to all members and friends on the afternoon of the Fourth. Members are requested to note that the party will be held on the night of July 3, not July 4.

New Carlton Cafe Roof Garden To Open Tonight

The New Carlton Cafe roof garden will open tonight when dinner will be served underneath the stars and the splendid cabaret show, which is a feature of the Carlton each evening, will be given on the roof.

The new roof garden will accommodate 1,500 people and gives a wonderful view overlooking the Race Course and the brilliant lighted curve of Nanking Road—Shanghai's Broadway—and because of the warmer weather prevalent will be a delightful place to spend the evening dancing.

A new oak dance floor, similar to the one in the ballroom, has been laid large enough to accommodate the Carlton's usual patronage.

Powell And Hsu Speak Before William's College

William's College, the Chinese Band, held its first commencement exercises yesterday. Mr. J. B. Powell and George Hsu Chien, ex-minister of Justice of the Southern government, were among the speakers. Mr. Powell spoke on the principle difficulties in China and their solution while Mr. Hsu dwelled on the necessity of both material and spiritual civilisation in China.

Ninety graduated yesterday, 73 receiving their diplomas for completing their courses in the preparatory school and 17 from the High School. The Washington University Scholarship was won by Chang Hai-yuan. The second scholarship carrying a full academic course in any of the universities in China was given to Tsau Nyoh.

there will be intervention by one or more powers singly in order to protect their individual interests. It is well known that America and Americans have not in the past favored such action, and have done a great deal, materially and morally, to help China avoid it. We have not even yet entirely given up the hope of avoiding it, and it is with this in view that we are striving to arouse the merchant class of China to a sense of their responsibility, and to a realisation of the fact that the remedy lies in their hands if they will but act.

"The Chinese Government cannot continue indefinitely to ignore its treaty obligations to foreign powers; it cannot shirk its responsibility to afford that protection which is a matter of right as well as of treaty, as is being done today, without being placed in a position of having to account for its failure. The lives and business existence of nationals of a neighboring government are even now being daily endangered due to the impotence of the Chinese government. This cannot be expected to go on unnoticed—and if it does continue, even the staunchest friends of China will be unable to forestall the calamity which will befall this country. The principal powers interested in China readily agreed at the Washington Conference to assist China, and have thus displayed their earnest friendship for this country, but China itself has done nothing to repeat the benefits of that Conference, and unless China does her part, others can do little or nothing.

THE YANGTSZE SITUATION

"The statement which was issued jointly by the Chamber of Commerce and the American Association under date of June 13 has been questioned by several of our nationals—particularly that part with reference to American vessels on the Yangtsze having been fired on and boarded by armed parties.

"Reports from masters of American vessels plying the Upper Yangtsze River complain that on nearly every trip they are fired on by bandits and ex-soldiers. Even the American gunboat Palos has been fired on by these bandits. Two years ago, while lying at Wanhsien, our own steamer Robert Dollar II was boarded by approximately 150 armed bandits, and it was only through the timely action of the American gunboat that the ship and its crew were saved. Last year, on one occasion, the steamer Alice Dollar was fired on and was hit by over 300 bullets; it was fortunate that only one or two of the passengers were killed. Just within the last month she was fired on, one of the bullets passing through the galley and narrowly missing the cook.

"In May of this year the steamer Mei Ren, which called at Wanhsien to load a shipment of wood oil, was held up and boarded by men with knives concealed under their coats, and the pilots were forced to leave and were taken into hiding. These pilots were not found by the Magistrate's detectives until three days later, during which time the Mei Ren was unable to sail. Upon returning they reported threats had been made that, if the Mei Ren attempted to carry wood oil again, they themselves would be killed at the first opportunity, while their families would be murdered immediately.

"The joint statement of the Chamber and the Association sets forth also that our trade rights are interfered with, and that travel for foreigners between treaty ports by land and water is unsafe, and the regular despatch of legitimate cargo prevented. The Lincheng outrage and the other incidents above mentioned are ample proof of the former statements, and in addition I need only say that the American gunboats on the Upper Yangtsze have been called upon many times to release junks containing American cargo detained by bandits and robbers.

"Gentlemen, in making these statements I am not quoting the press, but am taking my notes from the official records of the United States Navy. All these incidents are a matter of record and can easily be verified; and if any members have any question which they wish to ask in connection with them, I shall be only too pleased to answer, with a view to showing that the Chamber in making its statements does not base them on hearsay but on facts.

TRIBUTE TO MR. CROW

"Now, gentlemen, the annual report of the Board of Directors is in your hands, and I commend it to your serious consideration. Being a record of the activities of the Chamber for the past year, a synopsis of its views, and a memorandum of its recommendations for the future, I think you will find much of value and guidance in it."

"Reference to the Lincheng outrage," Mr. Dollar said in conclusion, "has also its happier side. I refer to the opportunity which it gives me to make public mention of the very fine work done by Mr. Carl Crow, in giving up his business and proceeding to Tsaochuang, where he organised and maintained a most efficient supply service for both the Chinese and foreign captives. As to the value of the work he did, the statements of the captives themselves are sufficient testimony—it is enough to repeat their own statement that it saved them from discomfort, disease, and possible death, and to remind you that in doing all this Mr. Crow had to deal wih bandits and outlaws. So that Mr. Crow may have a lasting reminder of the appreciation we all feel of the very splendid service he rendered, it gives us much pleasure to present to him this cigar box. Mr. Crow, I hope you will accept it as a token of our sentiments."

In expressing his apreciation for the handsome inscribed silver case, Mr. Crow stated that he was happy to have been able to be of some service.

"But," said he, "I hope the Chamber never will have occasion to give me a cigar box again for a similar reason."

Mr. J. B. Powell was unanimously re-elected honorary secretary of the Chamber and Mr. Dollar then introduced Mr. Edwin S. Cunningham, United States Consul-General, expressing the appreciation of the Chamber for the great and ready assistance always accorded that body and American merchants in general by the Consular staff.

Mr. Cunningham in a brief speech thanked the Chamber for the assistance which it had given him in many matters and congratulated the organisation on the splendid achievements which were recorded in the annual report. He indorsed heartily the chairman's expression of hope that the Chinese merchant might be roused to take an interest in politics. If such a thing occurred, he said, China would unquestionably rise to take her place among the great nations of the time.

Mr. J. B. Powell, on behalf of the Lincheng captives rose to voice their appreciation for what the Chamber had done in the way of relief work, paying special tribute to Mr. Dollar and the Chamber Committee as those who stood behind Mr. Crow, backing him up in his splendid work.

The meeting concluded with the announcement of the ballot, the following being elected to form the new Committee: Messrs. J. Harold Dollar, V. G. Lyman, H. A. Wiley, P. P. Whitham, H. B. Lane, J. Eichwald, S. B. Brown, L. Everett and E. Townsend.

IMPORTANT REPORTS

The many important issues which came before the Chamber during the past year are reviewed in the annual reoprt of the president and board of directors, which for lack of space is held over until tomorrow for publication in full.

The Lincheng bandit outrage and other instances of brigandage, the inadequacies of the American Yangtsze patrol fleet, the Boxer Indemnity, the question of security for American creditors of China, the question of abolition of extraterritoriality—which is strongly opposed for the time—communications in China and between China and America, proposed changes including reduction of the fees in connection with the Shanghai Licensed Pilots Association, the Customs surtax and likin and other vital matters are among the points brought up for considevation.

In introduction the report states that the American Chamber, formed in 1915 as an outgrowth of problems confronting American trade development at the opening of the European war, now finds itself faced with a new set of problems which are both a direct and an indirect outcome of the world situation which has developed since the War.

MUCH PROGRESS

The report then reviews briefly the accomplishment of various undertakings recommended in previous years.

For example, in the report for 1919-1920 the establishment of a modern American school was advocated; today the school is an accomplished fact. The development of an American merchant marine on the Pacific was urged; today statistics indicate that 48½ percent of the exports from Shanghai to American ports were handled in American ships. The Chamber urged that American firms become more active in the development of American business in China, and now, according to the figures, American firms are handling approximately 35 percent of the total exports from Shanghai to the United States. The passage by Congress of a Federal incorporation law to facilitate the organisation of American companies in China and which would give those companies a better prestige than they had previously enjoyed; today there is, in the Trade Act, such a law, and although it is not perfect the Chamber is continuing its efforts for amendments that will make the law workable.

The organisation of American chambers of commerce in other ports was urged and today there are Chambers in Tientsin, Peking, Hankow, Harbin and others in process of formation. During the year past representatives of these chambers met in Shanghai and formed a central organisation. Other ends accomplished include an expansion of the trade promotion service of the Department of Commerce, better facilities for the exchange of news between China and America. In this connection the hope is expressed that in the very near future there will be a regular American press service giving daily news from the United States for publication in the newspapers of China.

WAS TRYING YEAR

The year under review, the report states, has been a trying one in many respects, for, although there has been a gradual improvement in world economic conditions, which would normally mean corresponding improvement in China's share of world trade, this has been offset by the chaotic political and financial conditions that have prevailed here. The president and directors, however, see reason for not being unduly pessimistic for the future.

Referring to the Washington Conference the report stresses the importance of keeping the active interest of the American Government and people alive.

"It has been very disheartening," the report states, "to all of us that China has been able to take advantage of all the benefits which the Washington Conference made available to her. At that conference a serious effort was made to eliminate the worst forms of militarism all over the world, both on sea and land, but China thus far has not followed the advice of the Conference, or even the advice of her own statesmen who signed the document.

"China has today under arms more than a million soldiers, and these soldiers, instead of being used for the defense of the country, are used by the semi-independent military governors in their petty quarrels. These mercenary armies are eating up the resources of the country and have gradually brought about a condition approaching anarchy."

CHINA GIVEN CHANCES

The Western nations, the report remarks, have kept the faith. "The greatest nations of the world met in Washington and definitely established the territorial, political and administrative integrity of China. In simple words this means that the entire world has changed its attitude toward China and China was given the opportunity to work out her own destiny without outside interference."

"Unless the better elements of China arouse themselves," the report states further, "and interest themselves in bringing about improvements in the country, we fear that conditions throughout China may degenerate to the same level as those now existing in Shantung, where banditry has been practically legalised and where the normal functions of the government have broken down. However, it is never possible for a man who has been ill for a considerable period to regain his health immediately after the disease has been eliminated from his system. There must be a period of convalescence, and it is to be hoped that this is the explanation of the present situation in China, and that the country will soon find its legs and be able to take advantage of its opportunities and assume its proper place among the nations of the world."

THE YANGTSZE PATROL

In the section of the report devoted to separate consideration of the various issues to come before the Chamber much important and interesting information and comment is contained.

Under the heading "American Yangtsze River Patrol" the obsolete and inadequate character of the greater part of the fleet is emphasised and the hope is expressed that the Chamber's representations to Washington in this connection will bear fruit. On June 13, it is stated, the Chamber received a cable from the Secretary of the Navy to the effect that the Navy Department will make every effort to relieve the situation, but that at the present moment it is not possible. The matter will be laid before the next Congress, when an urgent request for new ships will be made by the Navy Department.

Commenting on "Disorder in China," the report states that the resolution condemning conditions passed by the Associated Chambers last October still represents the feeling of the Chamber. The Coltman shooting and the Lincheng incident are taken up under separate heads and in the latter case the trenchantly worded cablegram sent the State Department by the Chamber and the American Association urging suspension of Washington Conference benefits and other drastic measures by the Powers, is reproduced, as published previously in THE CHINA PRESS. The relief work of the Chamber, under the supervision of Mr. Carl Crow, is reported and the Chamber expresses pleasure over being able to feel that it was responsible in some measure for assuring supplies and otherwise assisting the captives.

RADIO AND "OPEN DOOR"

With regard to radio communication between China and America, the Chamber takes a firm stand for the carrying out of the contract signed two years ago by an American company and the Chinese Government.

"Although every possible effort has been made to carry out this contract, the American company has been handicapped at every stage by Japanese interests who claim a thirty year monopoly over all radio development in China and between China and other countries, basing their contention upon a secret agreement made in 1918. The U. S. Government has supported the American corporation, as have American interests both in the Far East and at home.

"It is the hope of the Chamber that the American Government will not recede from its position and will use every possible means to see that the American contract is carried out. This controversy has a vital bearing upon the 'Open Door' policy, not to mention the question of our communication facilities between China and the United States. Unless our Government maintains its position in reference to the right of American citizens to make contracts with the Chinese Government for development purposes, there is no question but what the whole 'Open Door' policy becomes a mere scrap of paper."

LICENSED PILOT FEES

Of extreme interest to shipping circles is the report concerning the Shanghai Licensed Pilots' Association. The matter was taken up by the Shanghai General Chamber of Commerce and views have been exchanged by representatives of the various national Chambers with a view, if thought fit, to consider a resolution demanding a reduction in the present tariff. Among other modifications suggested have been reduction in the scale of remuneration for pilots, setting of an age limit, yearly medical examinations, pensions and an increase in the number of pilots from 35 to 40. The possibility of bringing the Association under the control of the Customs was also suggested.

The 2½ percent Customs surtax and illegal internal taxation are also dealt with and will be reported fully in the next issue, with other important subjects in the report. The report also contains a comprehensive statement regarding some of the problems surrounding the development of American trade in China.

Del Monte

What Al Israel describes as "the greatest fantasy ever put on in Shanghai" will be shown at the Del Monte tonight. Over four weeks' of solid rehearsing under the wellknown ballet master, Jan Damaratsky, has been put into this, and the production promises to be one of the finest seen at the Del Monte. Damaratsky deserves great credit for he has thrown every ounce of his ability and energy in making it the acme of perfectness.

The scheme has been well-thought out and in a background of japanned floor on black pedestals a number of pretty girls will give different poses. As a spectacular piece of artistry it would require some beating. The poses will represent the world's renowned sculptors.

In addition to this Miss Elvira Petty will dance her hula dance in a special costume designed by herself, and the sisters Boyaritzova will give some gypsy dances in their own characteristic fashion.

The show will be on for a week nightly. There is no admission charge.

PART OF REBEL CANTON ARMIES HAVE GIVEN UP

Dr. Sun Personally Directing Operations On North River

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Canton, June 28.—Part of the remnants of the Kwangsi army, who are opposing the Constitutionalists in the North River, have surrendered, General Tse Wen-ping, the commander, agreeing to give up his arms. The position of the Northern troops is thus much weakened.

Dr. Sun Yat-sen is personally directing operations on the North River along the Canton-Hankow Railway near Yingtak.

There is still a lull in the fighting on the East River. General Heu Chung-chi is returning to Canton during the informal armistice.

Certain sections in Canton are still hopeful of peace, but influential followers of Dr. Sun disbelieve in the sincerity of General Chen Chiung-ming's faction.

The regular service of slow trains on the Canton-Kowloon Railway is being resumed after nearly three months' interruption owing to the war.

The Constitutionalist Government is modifying its stand on the Salt Gabelle issue and has compromised by agreeing to the Chief Inspectorate at Peking designating the Canton district inspector as previously under certain conditions, thus meeting the protest of the British, French and Japanese Governments, who charged Canton with violating the Reorganisation Loan Agreement by interfering with the Salt Administration proceeds. The collection of the tax still remains in the hands of the Canton-ese.

TRADE MISSION

(Reuter's Service)

Moscow, June 28.—The unofficial French trade mission headed by M. Duverger departed from Moscow today.

It is understood that nothing definite resulted from the discussions with regard to concessions. M. Duverger promised to return to France to initiate a vigorous campaign for the recognition of the Soviets.

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, June 28.—In a debate on the Budget in the Chamber of Deputies today, the Premier, M. Poincare, replying to the Communist Deputy, M. Berthou, declared that the Government's paramount condition for a resumption of relations with Russia was that the latter Government should recognise the debts contracted by its predecessors.

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 28.—Reuter's Agency understands that M. Krassin, who has returned to Moscow, is not likely to come back to London as head of the Russian Trade Delegation. M. Joffe is mentioned as his successor, but it is thought that his negotiations with Japan will not permit his being available for some time.

Weddings

ROSENFELD—JOURAVEL

The wedding took place yesterday afternoon at Ohel Rachel Synagogue of Mr. Julius Rosenfeld and Miss Bessie Jouravel, Rabbi Hirsch officiating.

The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a beautiful gown of white georgette heavily embroidered with pearls and edged with real lace. The Russian head dress she wore was also edged in real lace. She carried lilies and orange blossoms.

Her sister, Mrs. J. Spunt, acted as matron of honor, and the bridesmaids were Misses Levy and S. Goldman. They wore bouffant gowns of peach and blue with poke bonnets and carried flowers in paste shades. Two little flower girls wore yellow taffeta and poke bonnets.

The best man was Mr. Morris David and the little pages, who were dressed in white taffeta suits, were Joe Spunt and Jack du Pac de Marsoulies.

Following the wedding a reception was held at the home of Mrs. Spunt at 26 The Bund.

NEPRUD—HUTCHESON

St. John's Pro-Cathedral was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Thursday when Miss Josephine Hutcheson, of St. Mary's Hall, became the bride of Mr. Carl Neprud, of the Chinese Maritime Customs. The Right Rev. Bishop Graves officiated. Miss Marion Mitchell presided at the organ.

The bride, who was given away by Miss C. A. Fullerton, was dressed in white satin and lace with a tulle veil held in place by a wreath of orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of white carnations and ferns. Mrs. John Gold was matron of honor and wore a mauve costume. The maid of honor, Miss Marion Neprud, was in rose pink and carried pink carnations.

The groom chose for his best man Mr. Bruce Smith of Tientsin, and Mr. G. S. Gresham and Mr. T. R. Banister acted as ushers. After the ceremony, the Customs' Company, S. V. C. "ar-ed a guard of honor for the bridal party and later a reception was held at the Faculty House.

Mr. and Mrs. Neprud will spend their honeymoon in Japan after which they will be "at home" in Shanghai.

'Anna Christie' Today

Today Shanghai has its last opportunity of seeing the Frawley Company in "Anna Christie," the Eugene O'Neill play which has taken London by storm and has been described as one of the most powerful and realistic dramas of modern times. The play will be given at a matinee performance at the Lyceum at 4 p.m.

Tonight, as their farewell piece, Miss Adele Blood and the Frawley company will give the popular comedy "The Gold Diggers," which scored so well during the players previous visit here.

Last night "Lawful Larceny" was repeated to a fair sized house—considering the weather—which evinced much pleasure in the play.

LITTLE GIRLS CRY FOR DOLLS AND BIG GIRLS CRY FOR DOLLARS

Good Card On Tonight At Boxing Stadium; Ladies To Be Admitted

This is the night that Nick Boyle and Charlie White settle a grudge which, according to rumor, has considerable more of a basis than the mere desire to excel at boxing.

Dame Rumor, in fact, has gone so far as to say that these birds have both been sparking the same girl, as they say back in Missouri. At any rate there is a lot of suppressed excitement around the Stadium, all of which grew out of remarks that this pair have been shooting at each other during the week. Yesterday, so the story goes, Nick told Charlie that it would be all jake with him to settle their differences then and there, without waiting for a referee. Charlie said that would be all right with him, too, and added that it wouldn't be necessary to bother about boxing gloves. Nick replied that he always had considered gloves an impediment to real fighting and that the sooner they got together on that basis the better he would like it. Just at that interesting moment the Stadium manager, who had gone out to supervise some final touches on certain improvements he had ordered, happened along, so the grudge will be settled tonight instead.

Boxing fans are warned that this will be the last boxing night until July 21, as there are too many counter attractions in the intervening time to stage a show. A week from today is too soon after the fourth, and two weeks from today the French community will be celebrating Bastille day.

A fine preliminary card has been arranged for tonight, and the Stadium management guarantees that all who attend will see some bang-up boxing. The show starts promptly at 9:30, and ladies, as previously mentioned, are to be admitted for the first time.

KING AND QUEEN SEE FINE TENNIS AT WIMBLEDON

Vincent Richards Looks Like "Potential Champion"

(Reuter's Service)

London, June 29.—Their Majesties were present at Wimbledon today. The weather was glorious.

Play on the Center Court opened with a great fourth-round battle, in which the South African player, Mr. Norton, defeated the British Davis Cup player, Mr. Wheatley, 3-6, 8-6, 6-1, 6-2, but Mr. Vincent Richards's defeat of M. Brugnon, 6-4, 6-1, 6-2, produced the finest tennis yet seen. Mr. Richards's consistent brilliance makes him a potential champion.

Mr. William M. Johnston beat the South African player, Mr. Spence, 6-0, 6-1, 6-4; Mr. Woosnam beat Mr. Hillyard, 6-4, 6-3, 6-3; M. Lacoste beat Mr. Dawson, 6-2, 6-2, 6-0; M. Borotra beat Mr. Crawley, 2-6, 6-2, 3-6, 7-5, 6-0. All were four-round matches.

The Spaniard, Conde de Gomar, and the British players, Messrs. Godfree, Gordon Lowe and Greig won their third-round matches.

Mlle. Lenglen, beating Mrs. Covell, 6-0, 6-3, and Mrs. Mallory, defeating Mrs. Edgington, 6-4, 6-0, have entered the fourth-round.

The American pair, Messrs. Hunter and Richards, beat Majors Evans and Bernard, 6-2, 6-3, 7-5, in the first round.

Open-Air Concert

In the event of inclement weather, the Saturday evening orchestral concerts for the Municipal Orchestra will be given on the following Monday evening instead at the same hour.

The program for tonight is to be given at Jessfield Park, beginning at 9:15 o'clock.

PUBLIC SCHOOL CRICKETERS BEAT CATHEDRAL BOYS

Barnes Leads Batsmen With Fine Innings Of 53

Those rivals of long years' standing, the Shanghai Public School and the Cathedral School met on the Shanghai Cricket Club ground yesterday afternoon for their annual tussle—and the Public School added another and a decisive win to their side of the ledger.

The Cathedral School youngsters went in first and scored 73. Then the S. P. S. exercised their bats to the extent of 164 runs. The Cathedral School boys followed on and played out the time for 52, for eight wickets. It was a win for the S. P. S. on their first innings and only the calling of time saved the Cathedral a eleven from being beaten with an innings to spare.

Barnes of the Public School had a fine innings of 53 and Madar of the same eleven bowled very well throughout the match. For the Cathedral School Pratt bowled a fine ball and his analysis of 6 for 42 was very creditable. Aiers was the principal run-getter for the Cathedral School, scoring 33. He also bowled well and being the best all-around man for the Cathedral side, was awarded the Manthei Cup.

The prize bat was won by Barnes and the ball went to Madar. Both were presented by Mr. Grimshaw.

At noon the players and their friends were entertained at tiffin at the Cricket Club by Mr. Henry Lester and the youthful captains of the teams, Madar of S. P. S. and Hickmott of the Cathedral School, made pleasing little speeches, thanking Mr. Lester and the Cricket Club and expressing the hope that the best eleven might win.

Among those present for the tiffin, beside the players, was Dean Symons, Sub-Dean Spencer, Headmaster G. M. Billings of the Public School, Mr. Grimshaw, Mr. Hastings of the Public School, Mr. E. P. Graham Barrow of the Cathedral School, Mr. Lester and Mr. R. C. Young.

"THE COMET" MAY SEEK HONORS IN GOLF, IS "4" MAN

McLoughlin Plays Fine Links Game; Miss Browne Also

Los Angeles, June 10.—Golf enthusiasts hereabouts are keeping an interested eye on two former tennis champions whose recent achievements on the links give promise of their possible triumphant return to the spotlight of national sports as winners of the highest golf honors.

They are Maurice McLoughlin, former national singles champion, and Miss Mary K. Browne, twice winner of the national women's singles title.

McLoughlin, "The Comet," sensation of international play ten years ago, will be remembered to tennis fans throughout the country as the first exponent of the hard-driving, fast net game to appear on eastern courts. He has not given up tennis, but says he much prefers golf today.

In contrast to many others who have come to the front in golf, McLoughlin is essentially a professionally taught player. His swing resembles that of a "pro" rather than that of an amateur, and he has a long game that is the envy of many Southern California players.

McLoughlin has come to the front so fast that his game is still erratic, particularly on the green. Now and then he will putt with the cool precision of a master. Again he will tighten up and take three putts where he might have taken one.

Another year, some experts predict, will see McLoughlin playing a game that will warrant his entry in a national championship. Today he plays to a four handicap and is ranked as one of Southern California's most promising players.

Miss Browne has shown such aptitude for golf that she is already recognised as one of the leading players of the Pacific Coast, and there are many who believe that were she to enter a national championship her play would be the sensation of the journey.

Three times in the last year she has defeated Miss Doreen Kavanagh, state champion, in tournament play; and Miss Margaret Cameron, who made an excellent showing in the national championship last year, has met defeat at her hands at least once during that time.

Miss Browne is a natural player. When she drives she settles back on her heels, brings the club back well over her shoulder and then hits the ball 220, 230 or even 240 yards down the fairway. She is said to be the longest woman driver on the Pacific Coast today.

Through the fairway her play is good, but it is on the green that she does most of her spectacular work. She putts quickly, before she has had a chance to lose sight of the line to the cup. When under fire she is particularly dangerous, her long tennis experience apparently having given her nerves of steel. Often she has run down fifteen and twenty-foot putts when a match has depended on it.

Her short game, close observers of her progress say, is her only weakness, and she is devoting much time to perfecting a pitch to the pin. She has mastered a half iron running approach that is deadly in its accuracy, but says she is anxious to develop a short pitch in which she can have confidence.

U. S. Rules Film Market

American motion pictures predominate in every market, according to reports of the Department of Commerce. In the Polish market during 1922 American films held an 80 percent lead over Germany, the nearest competitor, and all told 218 pictures of American origin were exhibited as opposed to less than 140 from Germany. Figures for other nations were: Polish, 59 films; French, 52; Italian, 47; Austria, 48; Danish, 31; Russian, 9; English, 6, and Swedish, 6.

Poland is a good market for motion pictures as there are over 800 theaters in that country, of which fifty of the larger houses are located in cities such as Warsaw, Lemberg, Cracow, Posen, Kattowitz, Lodz, Bromberg, Vina and Lublin.

In that country there is a compulsory censorship of films by a national board of censorship located at the Press Bureau of the Ministry of the Interior, Nowy Swiat 69, Warsaw. It holds jurisdiction for all of Poland and requires anywhere from eight to thirty days in the case of each picture. Among its rules is that all titles must be in the Polish language, or in the case of bilingual titles, the Polish title must precede. The conversion of a foreign language into Polish is readily accomplished in Warsaw at a nominal cost.

American films predominate in the Argentine market, where they have secured a very firm hold on the public. German, French and Italian feature pictures are occasionally exhibited, but these countries do not enjoy a steady trade in this commodity. Local production is negligible and of a very inferior type.

There is a large market in Austria for recent films of the better class to take the place of the outworn films now being shown. The chief handicap to any such change is the fact that distribution rights in Austria can only be obtained through a number of middlemen who add materially to the distribution cost without contributing to the transaction. Leading distributers of American motion pictures feel that if they could establish direct contact with American lessors of film rights they could exhibit first-class motion pictures at a cost within the reach of the public.

In China preference is given to Chinese actors in Chinese plots. The most distinguished foreign talent surrounded by all the marvelous technique of the business as we know it today in America has little attraction for the Chinese. It is remarkable, says Trade Commissioner Hoyt in a report to the Department of Commerce, that the Chinese of the Treaty Ports continue to patronise the foreign picture to the extent that they do. This can be accounted for only by the fact that motion pictures there are still in the novelty class, and many people attend for this reason only.

"The great mass of the public has never been reached and never will be until competent directors put films out that can be understood by the masses," he states.

The substitution of Chinese characters for English in the foreign film is not satisfactory. The translator usually fails to grasp the exact meaning of the plot, and if he does, is not able to convey this meaning in an intelligible manner to a Chinese audience, because Chinese audiences are not well informed of life and conditions elsewhere in the world. They know Chinese life and want it depicted on the screen.

The Safety Of Kuling

A correspondent who recently made a trip round the Kuling hill foot when he endeavored to get into touch with the native authorities, writes from Nanchang as follows, says the Central China Press.

Whilst rumor is so rife it is well to have a true account of recent happenings in relation to the safety of those who plan to spend the summer months on Kuling and at other mountain resorts in the Province of Kiangsi. At the moment of writing both General Wu of Kiukiang and also General Wong in charge of the Northern troops which are operating in the south of the province and in Kwangtung are now on Kuling, and the latter is now arranging for his wife and family to come down from Peking to spend the summer in Kuling; these acts in themselves should go to show that the native Chiefs feel that this quarter is secure from molestation by the pending hostilities and should satisfy foreigners that they are quite safe in adopting Kuling as their rendezvous for the hot season. The writer is a native of this part and he is always in direct touch with the Chinese authorities; for the last three weeks he has been travelling through the south of the province, having visited Foochow, Changshu and Li-kia-tu quite recently.

Nanchang the Capital has had its anxieties during the last fortnight, but now that the Honan troops have been sent south to Kanchow and the city and country side are in control of the Northern Forces, chiefly Shantung troops which are faithful to the Provincial Governor or Tu-chun, business is going on as briskly as ever and the people are feeling that the danger has passed for the present. The disorders reported not long ago in the south of the province and particularly at Li-kiatu 130 miles south of Kiukiang were caused by stragglers and deserters from the forces that were sent two or three months ago into Fukien province and who have only recently returned from Yen-ping. The writer visited Li-kia-tu two days after the riot in which fifty or more of these troops looted and burnt thirty-seven of the wealthiest shops in the village. The natives of course in this district are still nervous and will be for some considerable time until troop formations are withdrawn from their vicinity, but on making investigations with the authorities the writer was told that these deserters had been rounded up and that loyal troops had been sent down from Foochow to police the district and no further trouble was anticipated.

At each place the writer has visited he has only received the greatest courtesy from the local authorities and Military; the troops in control of the province are almost all Shantung men, and the writer has heard of no cases of disorder among them and their Officers and Commanders seem to be in complete control; also these Officers have shown the writer every kindness. The writer begs to submit these impressions for the benefit of those who are inclined to be anxious regarding the outcome of hostilities between the Northern Government and the constantly warring factions of the South, namely in Fukien and Kwangtung.

ONLY OUR YOUNG MEN CAN END WAR, ASSERTS CLARKE

Says World's Older Statesmen Are Unequal To The Task

"If they go earnestly about it, 3,000,000 or 4,000,000 of young men can compel an organisation in our country for peace such as has never been seen in any nation of the world," declared John H. Clarke, former Justice of the United States Supreme Court, in a Memorial Day address, to members of the Youngstone Post of the American Legion.

Declaring the older statesmen of the world are unequal to the task of abolishing war, he told the veterans their fear of change must be replaced with the courage and driving force of youth, which will induce our statesmen at least to attempt the experimental of organising the United States for peace.

"Four million voters united with such a great moral purpose can accomplish what they wish in this Republic of ours," he added.

He proposed the League of Nations or a similar association of nations as a possible medium for the workings of peace.

"But if the existing League of Nations needs amending," he said, "Americanise it, and get behind it. Or if you think that unwise or impossible, go to work and devise and advocate a better plan, but do not under any circumstances sit lazily by and permit the country and yourselves to drift into the desolating calamity of another world war."

The speaker said he had thought over many remedies, and he saw but one left. That was a concerted organising by the American youth who have come to know war and its destructiveness and they only, he said, are able to act. He added:

"For centuries, international alliances, coalitions, ententes, four power and other treaties have served to promote rather than prevent war; arbitration and conciliation, effective in minor disputes, have proved futile in matters of great national concern; and a long train of conferences, congresses and concerts of nations paved the way to the late World War.

"We must devise some new method or perish, and for this reason I am addressing myself to the young soldiers of our country today. Old statesmen fear change. With rare exceptions, they have neither the vision nor the courage to see and believe that the present and the future can improve upon the past and, therefore, unless the young men—the young soldiers—of the country take this fateful matter in hand, we shall inevitably drift into another world war.

"But what can we do? I think I hear you asking. If you go earnestly about it, 3,000,000 or 4,000,000 of young men can compel an organisation of our country for peace such as has never been seen in any nation in the world.

"It is my confidence in this conclusion that has brought me here today to urge you young soldiers to formulate some program for securing the permanent peace of the world and to put all of your great influence behind it to drive it to success through your local, State and national organizations.

"This, then, is my message to you young soldiers: Organise! Organise! Organise now! to save your country, yourselves and mankind from another world war, for only by the organisation of the youth of the world can the sacrifice of the youth of this and of the next generation be prevented.

"You cannot accomplish this result through either of the two great political parties. The leadership of both is far too scheming, self-seeing and sordid for such high enterprises, but by resolute action you can easily coerce them both into supporting you, and never so easily and successfully as in the coming year.

"Be assured also that you will not be alone in your effort to achieve this greatest of moral purposes. You are sure to have the assistance of all of the churches, Christian and Jewish, Protestant and Catholic; of the colleges and schools, and of all of the organisations of the women and many of the organisations of men of our country.

"All that is needed is leadership, such leadership as the aspiring, bold and brave youth of our land can so certainly and so easily furnish for so great a cause."

Conseil d'Administration Municipale de la Concession Francaise de Changhai

NOTICE

MUNICIPAL LOAN OF 1923

8.000 debentures of Tls. 100 each
(issued at Tls. 97 each)

Rate of interest 6% per annum

The "Conseil d'Administration Municipale de la Concession Francaise de Changhai" hereby invite subscriptions for 8.000 debentures of Tls. 100 each, issued at Tls. 97 each according to the resolution passed at their General Meeting on the 14th May 1923.

The conditions on which the Debenture Certificates will be issued are:

1°.—The Debenture Certificates are transferable, and the person whose name is entered in the Register of Debenture Certificate or Certificates, shall alone be recognised and treated by the Council as the lawful and rightful holder and owner of such Debenture Certificate or Certificates.

2°.—The Debentures will be issued at Tls. 97 each.

3°.—The Debentures will be redeemable at par (Tls. 100 each) in not less than 10 years and not more than 30 years, from 1st December 1933 and according to the figures determinated by the Council.

4°.—The Debentures will bear interest at 6% per annum, payable on the 31st day of May and 30th day of November in each year, when interest warrants will be issued to the registered owners.

5°.—The Debenture Certificates will be issued and bear interest from 1st July 1923.

6°.—Applications for Debentures will be received at the Secretary's Office, Rue du Consulat, from June 20 next.

A cheque representing the amount of debentures asked for and payable on June 30th must be deposited at the same time.

7°.—Applications for Debentures under 97 will not be recognised by the Council.

8°.—For further informations, apply to Mr. P. Legendre, Secretary, French Municipal Council.

Shanghai, 31st May 1923.

By order,
P. LEGENDRE
Secretary.

Exchange Fluctuations

Asia Banking Corporation

June 29, 1923

Spot and forward bar silver were each up ⅛d. in London yesterday. The New York price is unchanged and the London-New York cross the declined to 459¾. Our official Sterling rate was raised to 3-0⅝, the Gold Dollar rate to 70¼ and the Yen rate dropped to 69¾; the other rates changed accordingly.

Our market in the early part of the morning was steady, eased off during the day but steadied up again just before the close.

The lowest rates at which business in Sterling was done were 3/0⅞ for June, 3/0⅞ for July and 3/0⅝ for August. The lowest rates for Gold Dollars were 70¾ for June, 70⅝ July and 70⅜ August.

At the close however, there were sellers of Sterling at 3/0⅞ for June delivery, 3/0⅞ July and 3/0¾ for August.

There were sellers of Gold Dollars at 70⅞ for June, 70⅝ for July and 70½ for August. There were sellers of Yen at the close at 68⅞ for June and 69⅛ for July.

Banks were quoting 3/1⅝ for Sterling bills for near delivery and 3/1½ for forward. They were quoting 72¾ for Gold Dollar bills for near delivery and 72½ for forward. There were buyers of Franc bills at 1180.

India bought silver in London yesterday and the market there is reported as steady.

New York also report their market as steady.

Cotton Reports

In their weekly report on the Shanghai Cotton market, Messrs. A. B. Rosenfeld and Son write as follows:

China Cotton:—We have had a very stik market during the past week and values were carried 150 points above the level ruling about a week ago making a total advance of Tls. 5.00 since the last low level. Strenuous efforts have been made since the price level of 1½ taels has again been touched to create the impression that this is to prove the intrinsic value of cotton from which further bulling may be started.

It looks to us, however, as if the market had again been bulled to a standstill, we do not wish to be understood as being enthusiastic on the bear side, but we think the recent advance is about all that can be expected and that the next fluctuation of consequence is likely to be downward. For the present, we would advise taking advantage of the strong market to sell and taking moderate profits on weak markets.

CORRESPONDENCE

Tungchow, June 25:—Cotton is small, but growing nicely and the outlook so far very good.

Shanghai and Districts, June 27:—During the late part of the week heavy rains were general throughout these territories and the land has been so wet that little progress has been made. With another few days of clear weather rapid improvement should take place.

Chekiang Province, June 25:—The general conditions in this province for the crop are good. Stands are from 5 to 6 inches high.

Shantung and Chihli Provinces June 25:—The crop prospects in these two provinces at present are very flattering. We need few showers within the next three or four days in order to improve general conditions.

Shensi and Shasi Provinces:—No reports to hand.

Yarn:—The market has been keeping steady to firm since our last report was issued. Princes advanced some Tls. 1.00 to Tls. 1.50 as compared with last week's level. Some 5,000 to 6,000 bales of various counts and chops of local products have been booked for export to Canton, Kiangse, Swatow, Tsingtao, Weihaiwei, Chefoo, Hankow, Fukien, Wuhu, Changsha, Szechuen and Tientsin and over 5,000 bales direct business with the Mills have been recorded.

SPUNT'S REPORT

Messrs. J. Spunt and Company write as follows in their weekly report on the cotton market:

China Cotton:—Our market during the past week has shown greater animation than has been experienced during any time of the current year in respect of the demand for the local staple and the volume of business transacted on same may be said comparatively to be double the quantity representing sales of yarn during the same period under review. Prices naturally advanced by about Tls. 1.50 per picul and the tendency for the time being inclines more to firmer markets as the available old crop stocks become more and more depleted coupled with the partially visible signs of ultimate exhaustion some time before the advent of the new crop cotton. The statistical position will no doubt become more accentuated as the demand for spinners output becomes more intensified and at rates more in consonance with those ruling on the raw material.

Prices on Mid-Americans during the past week have shown marked recessions for distant deliveries, yet for importation purposes, due to the prevailing low rates of exchange, such would be considered too high for any profitable results, particularly so at this early stage of the growing crop which is likely to develope in a very satisfactory yield.

As regards the domestic cotton crop, the weather so far is favorable and encourages an outlook for a fair average out-turn. Tone of the market. Firm.

WEATHER

Hot and damp weather. Southerly to S. Easterly winds over our coasts. The depression will cross the Northern Yellow Sea Eastwards. Cyclonic circulation between Shantung and Korea. The typhoon will reach the China Sea across Northern Luzon, W. N. W-wards. Rough weather over the Northern China Sea, possibly as far as the Kwangtung coasts.

A New Note From Japan

A WARNING of ominous significance to China is contained in the statement issued by the Japanese Legation at Peking to Reuter's for world-wide distribution. Of the fact that every charge and every threat of reprisal made therein has the full backing of the Japanese Imperial Government there can be no doubt. The Chinese national and provincial governments have failed to protect the Japanese in their rights of residence and trade in China, and further have failed to afford them protection both as to their persons and as to their property—and this after repeated warnings.

The special significance attaching to the statement at this time lies in the fact that the other great powers have been issuing similar warnings to China. Foreign commercial bodies have joined in support of their diplomatic representatives and have made direct appeals to their governments to put a stop to the intolerable conditions which have arisen in China. In the main these latter outbursts of "horror and indignation" have been due to the Lincheng bandit atrocity. But Japan was not involved in that. None of her nationals was made captive. So that while Japan supported the diplomatic representations which were made to China over that affair, she did little more.

It now appears that she was busy in other directions—making a full investigation of the Chinese outrages committed upon her nationals and her shipping in Chinese territory in recent months—building up her own case. The result of this investigation is set forth in the Reuter message which we publish today. It is a complete indictment and the Chinese officials, who have failed to give the protection to the Japanese which it is their duty to give, should be deprived of power and driven from office. By their connivance in these outrages they have imperilled the sovereignty of their country. This, of course, as we have pointed out before, also applies to the officials involved in the Shantung outbreak.

Thus we find that on all sides there is a rising tide of opinion in favor of foreign intervention. Japan, silent during the Paotzuku negotiations because not directly involved, now joins the hue and cry, not only joins but takes the lead. She has been making representations to the Chinese Foreign Office right along. It appears from the statement which she has issued that throughout the period during which the foreign victims of the Lincheng outrage were held captive Japan was pressing the Peking Government anent the outrages being committed against her own nationals in other sections of the country. She has got no results.

On June 8 the Japanese Government instructed its representative in Peking to "make strong representations." This was done, apparently without result. On June 15 a lengthy note supplementing these "representations" was presented. This in effect stated that "if the safety of the Japanese residents and their property continued to be threatened, the Japanese Government might be compelled to take the necessary measures according to the requirements of the case." Further, the usual preliminary claim for indemnities was submitted.

There the case stands for the moment. But that Japan is preparing for active armed intervention in case of further offenses to her nationals is made plain. Will the Chinese Government and people now take warning?

Four Labor members were suspended from the House of Commons for laboring under the delusion that they could get away with anything in the cussing line.

(From "Piracy," by Michael Arlen)

Glamour! Now his glamour is a very remarkable thing, a strange and indefinable thing, and very rare: for it does not fall on women because they have many lovers, it does not fall on women because they are wonderfully constant to one lover, and it certainly does not rain on women who Do Things. Sometimes it happens on a courtesan, sometimes on a great lady; but this glamour is no snob, it cares nothing for the claims of fashion, for it may quite well happen on a diarymaid, so that a whole countryside grows ware of her and a whole country sorrows for her death. Philosophers have spun and metaphysicians toiled, yet this stuff of glamour still evades the moral coils of definition. And whence it comes, no one can tell; nor why it comes—nor whither it goes! though poets do say they can smell the faint, musty smell of tragedy in its destiny, and historians can never resist ascribing it to luckless men and women of high degree. And sometimes you may love a woman mightily, yet try as you will you cannot find glamour in her, you simply cannot; she is just a woman, yours to love but not to dream about. Yes, this glamour is a wayward thing, it just comes and touches a lovely woman in each generation, and because of it her youth is long remembered and her middle age is forgiven, if she lives so long. It carries something fey with it, this glamour. It is a mysterious and uncommon thing. Poetry is written about it, and it is as wan as the poetry written about it.

The Amazing Rise Of The Fascisti In Italy Under Mussolini

BY ARTHUR BENINGTON

A new word came reverberating across the Atlantic—Fascism. What it meant few knew, but Americans caught it on the rebound, and future dictionaries will have to list it. The idea which it expressed had a certain vague appeal to a people which had founded its liberties on a Declaration of Independence and was already beginning to wonder whether the independence won by that declaration was still intact.

People talk of Fascism but few yet know really what it means.

Fascism is the newest and most vital idea in modern politics. Though born in Italy, it has already spread to many lands. It may be defined as a spontaneous uprising of the people against government that has ceased to govern, against being squeezed between the upper millstone of strikes and the lower millstone of lockouts, against being bled of its savings for the benefit of a horde of idle officeholders, against the menace of Communistic doctrines such as have turned Russia into a madhouse.

Fascism is a new declaration of independence, an insistence on prompt return to the good old principle that government exists only for the benefit of the governed, a reassertion of nationalism, with a declaration of non-interference in the affairs of other peoples, together with a determination to stand up for what is its own and to set peace on earth before it as an ideal.

Fascism has been accused of Communism, of suppressing liberty, of hostility to labor, of persecuting capital, of threatening religion, of setting up dictatorship. Each of which accusations is a proof that the accuser did not know what Fascism meant.

Of labor, Fascism asks only that labor; of capital it demands only that it do not hog everything; of religion it asks only that it do not meddle in civil government; of the state it asks only that it act—and act efficiently—for all the people and that it do not interfere with the private affairs of citizens or deprive them of their inherent personal rights.

Fascism sees that in many disputes between capital and labor it is the innocent public that suffers. It says to both capital and labor: "Eight hours is a day's work. Settle your disputes, and do it at once, or we shall impose a settlement on you. We are sick and tired of shivering for lack of coal while you squabble over terms of work: we refuse longer to hunger for bread while you scrap over wages for bakers."

Fascism looks over Government offices and sees many thousands of women drawing good salaries for sitting a few hours a day looking out of a window and occasionally initiating a document. It says to itself: "There's where my taxes go. I am sweating to keep these loafers in luxury. Raus min 'em!" And it takes a broom and sweeps them out into the street with the order, "Get to work."

Fascism casts its Argus eye upon rich and powerful men basking in the wealth they have piled up by "soaking" their country exorbitant prices for what it has had to buy from them and by grinding down their employees, and it says: "Charge the Government no more than you would charge a private individual in open competition. We are willing to pay you fair interest on your money, but no more."

Fascism looks on Government monopolies run at a heavy loss, taking a lot of money out of the pockets of the taxpayers, and reflects, "These great business enterprises in the hands of a real business man could pay a handsome profit and at the same time give us better service. What then is the sense of continuing to lose money on them? Put them up for sale to the highest bidder and thus secure a substantial and regular profit instead of a heavy annual loss."

Fascism looks at a Government which has ceased to govern and says: "Get out; we ourselves will do whatever governing may be necessary."

Fascism is a creation of the people; it exacts from all the people that hearty co-operation without which it must fail.

All these things Fascism is trying to do in Italy; many of them it has already done.

Have you ever noticed that whenever a great fire sweeps a forest, scarcely have the embers cooled before a plant with a tall spike of rather pretty violet flowers springs up from the ashes? This plant is commonly known as the "fire-weed." Europe was swept by a conflagration; in the chaotic swath of the conflict's aftermath the flower of Fascism sprang into life.

It was natural that it should bud and bloom first in Italy, for Italy has been the mother of most of the famous ideas that have contributed to the civilisation of the Western world. Rome gave ordered government and law to the world; in Rome was Christianity founded and from Rome Christianity spread throughout the world; Venice, Genoa, Florence and a hundred other proud republics taught the spirit of democracy; Italy produced the great philosophers, poets and moralists of the middle ages; in Italy was born the Renaissance; the first universities, medical schools and hospitals were founded in Italy; Italy was the world's preceptor in art and letters and refinement and cookery and agriculture; the Italian people, though oppressed by tyrants, were the world's exemplar in the obstinate struggle for freedom, and finally attained it under the most liberal of constitutional monarchs, who reigns "by the grace of God and the will of the Italian people."

And this Italian people has never been led far astray by theories and Utopias; it has always kept its feet upon the ground; it has always faced facts as they are. The theories of Karl Marx never took deep root among them. It is true that there has been a Socialist Party with a large following, but how weakly held were the Marxian principles even among those who nominally professed them has been proved again and again when they were put to the test—notably in the late war, the party splitting and splitting repeatedly and the Socialists losing their great leaders when these showed their patriotism by fighting bravely against their country's foes. Mussolini was one of these. It is true that a few years ago Socialism seemed for a while to be in the ascendant. The workers, dissatisfied with their inability to obtain redress from rotten conditions, political and economic, turned to Socialism as a forlorn hope. But its ascendancy was very brief. Three mistakes sufficed to make it collapse. One was its attempt to prevent Italy from entering the war. The second was the encouragement it gave to the workers to seize the factories. For no sooner had they taken possession and faced the task of running the factories than they discovered their own incompetence. It was a great lesson. The third mistake was accepting the doctrines of the Russian Bolshevists and trying to graft them upon Italy. This aroused the spirit of every man who had risked his life or lost a brother in the war. "Is this what we fought for?" they asked each other, and the unanimous answer was "No!"

Thus did Socialism dig its own grave. The workers lost faith in leaders who led them only to disaster. The ex-soldiers would have none of Bolshevism. The people regained their reason.

The Government then in power allowed the breach between labor and capital to widen without even trying to heal it. It sat, like King Canute, and ordered the rising tide of Communism to stop and, when the tide was threatening to engulf it, fled. Premier followed Premier in rapid succession, and each talked eloquently but in action was more feeble than the last. The Communistic Socialists were doing desperate things—seizing City Halls, tearing down the national flag and replacing it with the red—and no one in authority did anything to stop them. Anarchists of the Malatesta type went about openly preaching anarchy. Bolshevist leaders from Moscow came and preached the doctrines of Sovietism and were feted by the more rabid of the Socialists.

The people—the great mass of the sane, sound-thinking, industrious, common-sense Italian people—growled its disgust and its protest against the Government's inaction. Then the ex-soldiers, mostly young men, came together, called on the rest of the country to join them, handed themselves under the emblem of the Fasces, or bundle of rods borne by the ancient Roman lictors, and shouted: "If nobody else can bring order out of this mess, we will!"

And they began with vigorous counter-attacks against the most urgent peril, Bolshevism. Fighting the fire with fire, they wrecked Socialist headquarters, tore down red flags, chased the insidious Russian Bolshevists

INSPIRES PATRIOTISM

BY WILLIS H. BOOTH

(Vice President of the Guaranty Trust Company, who was one of the American delegates to the meeting of the International Chamber of Commerce in Rome, where he was elected President for the ensuing year).

I spent many hours in conversation with Mussolini, and what impressed me most—aside from his really powerful personality—was the way in which he has known how to inspire the whole Italian people with the patriotism of service. All Italians are ardently patriotic, but hitherto they have been accustomed to express their patriotism in talk. The only patriotism that really counts is that which serves. This is the ideal now dominant among the Italian people. Mussolini is setting them the example, and if he continues to succeed, as I firmly believe he will, he will go down in history as a very great man.

AROUSED THE YOUTH

BY PAUL D. CRAVATH

(President of the Italy-American Society)

I began my visit in Rome this spring with the prejudice against Mussolini and his movement that is natural to an American having an Anglo-Saxon's instinctive distrust of any departure from orderly democratic procedure. Like most Americans who have studied the Fascisti movement on the ground, I soon overcame this prejudice and realised that Italy had undergone a spiritual regeneration rather than a political revolution. Especially has Mussolini aroused enthusiasm and patriotism in the youth of Italy. The nation seems determined to support the Mussolini Government in its program of balancing the national budget by reduced governmental expenditure and the more effective collection of taxes, and is prepared to make the sacrifices that are necessary to that end. I believe Mussolini will last and will have the continued support of a majority of the Italian people of all classes and will succeed in establishing a government under which Italy will be more prosperous and progressive than ever before.

NEW LEADERSHIP

BY JULIUS H. BARNES

(President of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States)

An American visiting Italy today is impressed with the new leadership, which places Italy beside the United States in recognising that the injection of the state into the processes of industry is demoralising and stifling, has created a new spirit of hopefulness in that people. The development of hydro-electric energy from the streams for centuries have run to waste, typifies the beginning of a new mium will now be put upon human energy, aided by science and invention and mechanical aids. Our whole American leadership in the expansion of human production by invention affords assurance that Italy, with its industrious and thrifty people, will, under this new industrial philosophy, enter upon enlarged earnings and enlarged savings, with all that that means of national security and national prosperity. It is a time of great confidence in Italy's future and of sincerity in practical helpfulness as she approaches these new problems.

W.H.C. SUPER-DURABLE FLAT PAINT
FLAT WALL FINISH

A perfect Paint of smooth surface for Interior Wall Coating

The surface obtainable with this paint is smooth and flat, i.e., it is not a grainy, dead, lifeless finish, but of a velvety texture. It dries in a reasonably quick time, so that work can be carried out effectively, yet has the property of remaining open long enough to enable the worker to cover a large surface of wall without making laps or edges.

Excellent results with Super Durable Flat Finish are easily obtained, irrespective of the skill of the user; and an elaborate preparation of the surface is usually quite unnecessary.

Super Durable Flat Finish has been tried on non-absorbent surfaces of all kinds and where distemper and oil paint have proved prone to shell or flake off, it has always adhered. It gives a lasting finish of surprising beauty.

1 Imperial Gallon covers about 130 square yards one coat.

Across The Breakfast Table

By Mr. And Mrs. W. L. George

A Girl On Her Own

Mrs. George: I hear that Mamie is going to stay alone at a summer hotel. I really can't understand her mother letting her go alone. Of course, I know that all sorts of girls are doing it, but I say they get into the wrong atmosphere; they go to places where the general tone is bad for unchaperoned girls, and men take advantage of it. Oh, you needn't protest, men are very slack on a holiday, and they easily get familiar with a girl who's alone. Mamie's already indiscreet enough. I shudder to think what she'll become.

Mr. George: You date back to the year 1860, that's what's the matter with you. Fancy anybody taking advantage of Mamie! Mamie's more likely to take advantage of them. Mamie is what they call a care-taker, for she takes care of the care-taker first. Don't worry about your little cousin; and anyhow, girls will be girls and I don't see any harm in Mamie sowing her crop of mild oats.

Mrs. George: Sowing mild oats, as you call them, is all very well, but sow them with young men of your own kind, in your own special atmosphere. I don't say Mamie oughtn't to go to a summer hotel and play about, but she ought to have an older woman with her. Oh, I know you're always talking of freedom, but what sort of girl does it make? Does it make a nicer girl? A better girl? Would you have married me if would picked me at a summer hotel? No, you knew better.

The Amazing Rise Of The Fascisti In Italy

back to Moscow, used their guns ruthlessly when the Socialists showed active resistance, forcibly suppressed the Communistic newspapers. They brought on a reign of terror in the towns that had been hotbeds of Communism. They saved Italy rrom the Bolshevist revolution that all the world was trembling to foresee.

Italy flocked to the Fascist banner. Men and women, workers and peasants, rich and poor, nobles and plebeians, north and south, all men who had been despairing of a happy outcome of Italy's troubles gladly donned the "black shirt." Soon they were numbered in hundreds of thousands. And the Socialist Parties—of which there are several—crumbled to pieces as their nominal adherents deserted in droves and joined the Fascisti.

All this required organisations. There was an ex-Socialist leader named Mussolini, a powerful writer, a man of the people, son of a blacksmith, bearing decorations and wounds for valor in battle, whose integrity had never been questiond. After the war he had started a newspaper and had edited it so well that its circulation had grown from nothing to several hundred thousand. By dint of sheer ability he had rapidly become the mouthpiece of Fascism and had made his paper its official organ. The battlecries of Fascism were his. His was the biggest brain in the movement. Around him all the leaders grouped themselves. He inspired the organisation of what had started as a group of ex-soldiers until within two years it had become a powerful political party. He was soon recognised as their leader by the Fascisti. Mussolini is only thirty-nine years old.

The story of the last year—the march of tens of thousands of Fascisti upon Rome, their stupendous welcome by the whole city, the resignation of the Ministry, the thrilling salute to the King, the King's sympathetic reception, and finally his request to Mussolini that he form a Ministry—is an event too recent to need more than a reference.

It was a swift and bloodless revolution. Mussolini chose his Cabinet from among the levellest heads in Italy, not confining himself to the young men of his own party but intrusting tried veterans like Diaz and Thaon di Revel with the army and the navy.

He lost no time in putting into effect the principles of the Fascisti. In this he had the backing of the King himself. One of the leading newspapers of Madrid, where Fascism is looked upon with distinct approval by the people, called King Victor Emmanuel the "real leader of Fascism." If this be an exaggeration, it is at least very near to the truth. The King of Italy would gladly give up his crown tomorrow if the people wanted it, and who would inevitably be elected President of a Italian republic if one were formed, and would be prouder of his election than he is of his crown. And the welcome he gave to the Facsisti who marched on the capital was at least as hearty as that of any of the humblest Romans.

In Italy, Fascism is only on trial as yet, but the people are enthusiastic over the way it has begun, and many of Europe's best minds believe that Italy has again found the true solution of many of the world's most complex problems.

The Electrolysis Of Water

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS

"Will you please write something about the electrolysis of water?—N. R., New York."

That takes us into the world of the infinitely little, the world of the atoms, the molecules; the ions, and the electrons. Molecules are made up of atoms; atoms are made up of electrons; ions ("goers" or "carriers"), in the sense in which we here use the term, are the active agents in electrolysis, consisting of freed atoms, or groups of atoms, that move between electric poles, or electrodes, when these are dipped into acidulated water.

Take a glass jar partly filled with water, to which a little acid has been added to make it conduct better. Fill two glass tubes with water, and carefully immerse them in the water in the jar, open end down. The pressure of the atmosphere on the surface of the water in the open jar will keep the tubes full to the top.

Through holes in the bottom of the jar introduce two electric wires, one from the postive the other from the negative pole of a battery. Let these wires have platinum terminals, or electrodes, placed at the bottoms of the inverted tubes, one electrode under each tube. The electrode terminating the wire coming from the positive pole of the battery will be called the anode, and the other terminating the wire from the negative pole of the battery the kathode.

When the battery is set into action by connecting its wires with the two electrodes, a current of electricity begins to flow through the water, entering at the anode and passing out at the kathode.

The effect of the passage of the electricity through the water is to break apart its molecules, setting them free in the form of gaseous ions, which move toward the respective electrodes, the hydrogen collecting at the kathode and the oxygen at the anode. These gases then rise through the water in the tubes, the oxygen in the tube that covers the anode and the hydrogen in the tube that covers the kathode, and by their pressure they force the water down from the top of each tube.

But it will be seen that the quantity of hydrogen is about double the quantity of oxygen, kathode being forced down twice as far as that in the other tube.

Thus it is found that the liquid water is made up by the combination of the two gases, oxygen and hydrogen, two atoms of hydrogen joining one atom of oxygen to make one molecule of water. The proof is reversed if the two gases, thus taken apart by electrically splitting up the water, are put together and then a spark is sent into them. The spark acts like the pulling of a trigger, and with a violent explosion the atoms of the gases rush together and unite to form again the liquid water. It was Michael Faraday who first determined the fundamental laws of electrolysis.

Bobbie And His Pa

BY WILLIAM F. KIRK

I had a funny dreem last nite. I dreemed that nothing wud grow no moar on this erth on which we are living on, so I toald Pa about it this morning wen we was eeting our panner-cafks.

That was a Gastly nitermair, Bobbie, wasen' it? sed Pa. The strane must of been terribul on you, Bobbie, sed Pa.

It was, I sed. In my dreem I cud see peepul starving all around me. I dreemed that I had sum roast beef hid in a barn, I sed, & I dreemed that I gave ½ of it to Ma & ½ to you. I was pritty hungry myself, I sed, but I dident keap any for myself.

The littel deer, sed Ma. Bobbie was always gennerus. I think he taiks after my deer old father.

Was Bobbie's deer old father evver stingy? sed Pa.

Oh, no, I dident meen to inply that, sed Ma kind of quick. You are not stingy, deerest luv, sed Ma to Pa, only I was thinking of how much deer old daddy always gave us & how littel he kep for hisself, sed Ma.

That old sport nevver gaiv hisself any the worst of it, sed Pa. The only time I evver saw him come across kind of eesy & generus, sed Pa, was wen I asked him for you, sed Pa.

How dare you? sed Ma.

I am a braiv man & I dare much, sed Pa.

One wud think that I had been a birden to my fokes, sed Ma. I cud go rite back thare & live with them now if I wanted to, sed Ma & thay wud be tickeld pink to have me, Ma sed.

But you cudent think of leeving yure deer old Hunnybug, cud you? sed Pa.

I am not so sure, sed Ma. Sumtimes wen you speek as you just spoak of deer old daddy. I feel like going away, away, away, sed Ma.

Many wifes has felt that way sumtimes, I suppoas, sed Pa, but thay always feel like cumming back, back, back, sed Pa. I do not beleeve life wud have any charms for you if you dident have littel me, sed Pa.

Many a man has felt that way about his wife, only to lose her, sed Ma.

Maybe, sed Pa, & many a man has a wife that he can't lose, also, too, sed Pa.

Now see here, you two (2), I sed, thare aint going to be any Quarl around here. I belong to the Scouts now, I sed, & it is one of our dewties to keep our pairents from skrapping, I sed.

Mrs. Rowarth, On Witness Stand, Denies Assault On Indian Money Lender

of his, Bakhar Singh's, pockets. There was one paper and $90.00 in notes. The witness gave the paper to the Indian sergeant. It referred to the loans. The money were kept by the witness.

The first document was recognised by the witness. The complainant was in hospital when he, Sucha Singh, saw him.

PRODUCES MAP

Mr. Wilson, a surveyor, was recalled and produced a most recent map of the district in question.

That closed the case for the Crown.

The Judge wanted to question Bakhar Singh who was recalled.

You remember making a statement in the hospital? Yes.

Did you mention a Portuguese and a Chinese? Yes.

Who was the Portuguese? It was Mrs. Rowarth. I could not remember her name.

How many ladies of the name Davis do you know? Two.

Have you money transactions with these Mrs. Davises? One of these is the daughter of Mrs. Rowarth.

Two promissory notes were produced and the witness pointed out the signature of Mrs. M. Davis who is the daughter of the accused. Several other papers were produced with the same signature and the witness said that they were all signed by Mrs. Davis, the daughter of the accused.

The Judge: We have nine documents and four promissory notes which bear the name of Davis. The witness says that it was signed by Mrs. M. Davis, the daughter of the accused. The ninth belongs to a Miss Davis of Jukong Road.

The foreman of the Jury wanted to know whether the amah had the lamp with her when they left the house in Miller Road. The witness replied that she might have had it, but he was sure she had lighted it when they got out of the ricsha.

DEFENCE OPENS

Mr. Lipson Ward on behalf of the defendant addressed the Court and jury. He said that what they must be sure of in their decision was proof. What is proof? was the question he asked.

"You have got to consider the matter, as if you were an ordinary business man, which might be of a very great importance. You must apply the same dealings in the Court. If you are in doubt as to whether the facts are this or that way, it is not enough. When deciding such a case as this there must be no doubt in your minds. You must be convinced before you decide the matter.

He went on to say that as pointed out by the Crown Advocate the woman is accused of most brutal murder. She is charged with aiding and abetting other persons unknown to the Crown Advocate.

"It won't do. It would not be proper to suggest that the real case that he is putting before you and that this woman of 62 years of age was aiding and abetting some member of her family to the Crown Advocate known. If he chooses, he can use that knowledge and the only use he can make that the members of the family owed the Sikh money," were the words the Counsel for the defence used.

This woman, the accused, had borrowed $100 from the complainant. There never was any trouble between them. It is possible that she was not in a position to pay. Knowing where the man lived she deliberately goes to his house in the company of a Chinese amah. She then invites him, in presence of Hassan Ali, to go with her. If she wanted to murder the man she would not come to the house and ask him in the presence of a third person, who can at any time give evidence to the event, point her out. The amah might have left her at any moment. She might have ran away and told the whole story.

Then again after having led the man to the spot where she knew three Chinese were waiting for their prey and having injured, if not killed, the Indian, she leaves him on the foot-path and the chopper beside him.

The stronger point is, proceeded the Counsel, if the man went to see the Chinese he would have the promissory notes with him. Instead he had a note of Mrs. Davis's guaranteed by Miss Davis.

Mr. Lipson Ward further stated that the Judge and the Jury will hear the evidence of Mrs. Rowarth, then the evidence of Mrs. Davis who will say that the young Chinese amah who was in her employ left her on May 20, some time after the crime. After having outlined the evidence for the defence Mr. M. A. Mackintosh, Shipping Department, Butterfield & Swire, spoke of a purchase of a ticket by a Mr. Stewart for Hankow.

WOMAN TESTIFIES

Mrs. Rowarth then took the stand in her own defense.

Mr. Mansel Reece: Where do you live Mrs. Rowarth? 1986 Woosung Road.

How long have you lived there? Since my husband lost his job.

Do you know Bakhar Singh? Yes.

When did you see him last before the attack? On May 1.

What day was that? I cannot remember the day of the week.

What time? Between 1 and 2 p.m.

Why should you see him then? I went there to pay the interest on the money I owe.

Are you on good terms with your husband? Yes.

When do you see him? Every day.

Do you remember this unfortunate day, May 4? Yes. I think it was Friday. We went to the show.

Is there no other reason for fixing that day in your memory? It is on account of the show.

You mean you went to the show that night? Yes.

Were there new pictures on that night? Yes. They change the pictures on Thursdays. We went on the second night. We went to the Isis.

Have you heard anything about the quality of the pictures? Yes. I have heard from my grand daughter and her friend. They said that the pictures were nice.

They had been on the previous night? Yes.

Tell us do you go out about too much? No.

Do you lead more or less regular routine? After I finished my work in the house I go to my daughter's place, Mrs. Davis.

Which Mrs. Davis is this? She lives in Kwantung Road.

Can you tell us what happened on that particular day?

REVIEWS MOVEMENTS

The witness: What day? You mean May 4? My husband came to tiffin and then went away. I worked. He usually comes home for tiffin about 12, 12.30 or 1 o'clock.

After tiffin what happened to you? After tiffin I put the house straight and then I left the house about 2 or 3 p.m. I went straight to Mrs. Davis house, Kwantung Road.

The Judge: Do you know Mrs. Davis in Jukong Road? My daughter and Mrs. Davis in Jukong Road are two sisters-in-law.

Mr. Reece: What did you do when you got to your daughter's house that day? I did some sewing. Then I sat down and was watching a game of Mah-jong. There were other people. Some people from Hongkong, I cannot remember who they were.

Was your daughter there? Yes. She is always there.

As the afternoon wore on what time did your husband come? He came between 5.30 and 6 p.m.

What did you do then? I talked to him. Later on Mr. Pereira came in. I think he took somebody's hand in the game.

Do you remember anyone else coming in? Mr. Marques came in. I cannot say whether he was with my son or not.

Was your son there? Yes.

Was your son there that night? I cannot tell you exactly. Mr. Goldberg was with Mr. Marques. I have another son, he is not in Shanghai. He has gone away. His name is Stewart. Mr. Stewart came in to bid me good-bye.

Do you remember what time they finished playing mah-jonng? About 7.30.

What time was dinner that night? About 8.30 or 8.35 p.m.

Were all the people present at the meal? Some were there and some were not.

After dinner what happened? My husband said "What about the pictures? Shall we go?" The others mentioned that they were very nice and we decided to go. The Isis starts at 9.15. We were about five minutes walk from the cinema. I was there all the time, until the show finished, at about 11 o'clock.

After the show what happened to you? After the show myself and my husband went home. As soon as we arrived we went to sleep. I do not remember the name of the picture.

Have you seen Bakhar Singh that evening or that night? No.

By Mr. Wilkinson: Your daughter, Mrs. Davis has a daughter o your grand daughter and she is about 18 or 17 years of age? About 17.

When you borrowed money from Bakhar Singh how long ago was it? About the end of December.

Did your daughter guarantee repayment? Yes.

Was it through your daughter, Mrs. Davis, that you got to know Bakhar Singh? No. Lots of people were talking about him lending money.

Did you pay interest regularly to him up to May? When he gave me $100 I at once gave him $20 interest for two months. Then my husband was out of job and my son allowed me some money. My son was living with Mrs. Davis at that time. I told Mrs. Davis to pass the money to Bakhar Singh. I knew that my daughter knew Bakhar Singh. I see my daughter every day. Very often I stay there for dinner.

What was your reason for going to Bakhar Singh on May 1? I met Bakhar Singh in March and he told me to bring the money direct to him.

How many rooms are there in your daughter's house? It is a Chinese house. There are two rooms upstairs and two rooms down stairs.

VISITS DAUGHTER

This Chinese little girl she went away since May 4? Yes. I did not know any Chinese girl. I have never noticed her as a servant. I thought she was a friend of servants.

Did your daughter tell you anything about this small girl having left? No.

If you spent mostly every day with your daughter I suppose you knew her affairs? I did not know.

Is she the daughter that you visit every day? Yes. I visit the other daughter in the morning.

About the Mah-jonng. Your daughter or her friends play Mah-jonng every day? Yes.

On one or two tables? One table.

I suppose your husband when he comes from the office goes to the daughter's house knowing that you are there? He always comes there.

He stops there for dinner? He always stops there for dinner. The situation would be that practically every day you spent the afternoons and the evenings with your daughter and your husband, then at night you and your husband would go home together? Yes.

This Bakhar Singh is a well known money lender? Yes.

About the pictures. You are very fond of going to the pictures? Yes.

Do you go very often? Yes. I do not go at nights very often. I go to matinees. If my daughter's husband invites us we go.

You were not playing Mah-jonng that afternoon? No. I do not understand the game.

The Mah-jonng was played in one of the down-stairs rooms? No, upstairs. The people were coming in and out. Mr. Stewart, my son, lives in Haskell Road.

I must put it to you that while they were playing Mah-jonng you could have been out between 7 and 8 p.m. or a little later? I was never out of the house. The inner was about 8.30. We at once left the house for cinema at about 9.05.

When did you first hear that any trouble had happened to Bakhar Singh? I saw it in the papers.

Did you talk to your daughter about that? No. My husband showed me the paper and I said that it could not have happened.

Did you mention it to your daughter? No. I have never heard anybody talking about it.

The Judge. When did you first hear that this money lender was the man who has been attacked? Quite a few days afterwards.

When did you find out that it was him? About the end of May.

HUSBAND NOT INFORMED

Mr. Wilkinson: I understand from depositions in the lower Court that your husband did not know that you borrowed money? He did not know until he saw my book.

It was after the trouble arose? After I was arrested.

And the only persons you spoke to about this money-lender was your husband? Yes. We always read in the papers about the money lenders. There was a family dinner at the house of my daughter and we had Portuguese chow.

Did you know that Mrs. Davis, your daughter, had guaranteed certain sums owed to Bakhar Singh? I did not know anything about it.

Did Bakhar Singh suggest that your daughter should be the guarantor? He had asked me for a guarantee and my daughter said that she would guarantee for me.

The hearing was then adjourned.
